

THE DEMOCRAT.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY HARNEY & HUGHES.
Office on Third street, East side, between Market and Jefferson.

Democratic Ticket, 1852.

FOR PRESIDENT,
FRANKLIN PIERCE, of N. Hampshire.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
WM. R. KING, of Alabama.

MEMBERS FOR THE SENATE AT LARGE,
JOHN W. STEVENSON, of Kentucky, BEVERLY L. CLARK, of Simpson.

1st District—Wm. Bradley, of Hopkins; 2d " J. P. B. B. of Jackson; 3d " J. N. C. of Jackson; 4th " J. N. C. of Jackson; 5th " J. N. C. of Jackson;
6th " J. N. C. of Jackson;
7th " J. N. C. of Jackson;
8th " J. N. C. of Jackson;
9th " J. N. C. of Jackson;
10th " J. N. C. of Jackson.

"NO NORTH, NO SOUTH, NO EAST, NO WEST MAINTENANCE OF THE COMMON BOND AND TRUE DEVOTION TO THE COMMON BROTHER-HOOD."—FRANKLIN PIERCE.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1852.

"We have been taxed, we are now taxed, and we shall always be taxed, and heavily too, for the protection and promotion of the interests of the eastern States; and if we are to be debarred from the enjoyment of the equal rights that belong to us as citizens of a great and important section of the Union.—L. J. JONES.

Now, did any one ever hear the like of that?
Taxes, are we? Who pays tax for any such purpose? Isn't the money paid out of the Federal treasury for improvements on the eastern coasts; and isn't that raised by a tariff; and is it possible that a tariff is a tax? We are taxed heavily by the tariff; so, let's put the tariff down; it's too high in our opinion.

We observe a great change of opinion in the editor of the Journal. This tariff was once the country's blessing. It redeemed the country from the deepest depression, and it needed to be increased in order to enhance the magnitude of its benefits. Even now the whigs think the country is to be ruined for want of more tariff, according to the Journal, for a want of more tax on iron. According to whig philosophy, a tariff is the greatest blessing this country enjoys.

Here, however, the Journal begins to make a pious mouth for rivers and harbors, and complains that we are heavily taxed. Well, how long will our neighbor stick to this? Perhaps to-morrow morning he will be croaking again for want of more tax, under the name of more protection. Strange how one small head like his can hold so many notions on all sides of all questions!

The Doctor of the Whigs is New York.— We looked to the meeting of the whig convention in New York, with some curiosity to see how that abolition body would do round the platform. That they would dodge, every one foresees. Well here it is. The convention was very harmonious in voting through the following resolutions:

6th. That the whig party, being a national party, devoted to the Union, and to the welfare and promotion of all the varied interests of this great Republic, and uniformity of action and conduct of purpose being essential to the success of the agency of a National Convention, an honest acquiescence in the decision and action of the late National Convention of the whig party upon all subjects legitimately before them, is the duty of every whig.

"Legitimately before them." Their action on subjects not legitimately before them, is entitled to no such consideration. That is precisely the ground taken by the abolition whigs.
They say it was not the legitimate business of the convention to make any declaration at all upon the question of slavery. Hence Greeley, who was at the convention, thus explains the resolution.

Syracuse, Wednesday, Sept. 22—8 P. M.
The whig State convention has finished its business and is just adjourning. Its deliberations were harmonious, its spirit enthusiastic, and the ticket is regarded as a strong one, and gives universal satisfaction.

The only difference of opinion developed relates to the extent of the tariff on slavery, and which nothing is directly in the resolutions, but a general declaration is made which those who please can construe into an approval of the Baltimore platform.

A large majority of the convention was opposed in sentiment even to the convention, but yielded for the sake of peace. On all the distinctive whig grounds the resolves are right, strong and explicit.

"John H. Harney, the veteran editor of the Louisville Democrat, is named as a candidate for Congress in the Louisville district.— We are a Harney man, and we have no doubt that he will be elected. He has been a whig since he was a boy, and if we can do him any good at this distance, he may rely upon us—we'll be in for him, 'tooth and nail.' Prentice, a man of exalted talents, and a noble heart, is nominated; but Harney is a better man, and a better man than Prentice, and he will be elected. Harney will be elected at the quarter street.

Dem. Banner.
Thanks to our friends of the Banner for the compliment, and we hope to have the pleasure of returning it with interest; but, as to this running for Congress, our neighbor no sooner saw our name named, than he backed out of it. He had begun to entertain the vulgar ambition of running for Congress, until he saw his competitor might be, and he climbed down, or, again to his position as a manufacturer of great men, instead of assuming the very equivocal one of aspiring to greatness himself.

We don't wonder that he wished to change his position. He has been called to defend whigry in general, and it is now a most ungrateful task; but the prospect of a fire in the rear, in the announcement of our name, frightened him out of the action, and he concluded that bad as his position now is, it is preferable to such a change as he was likely to make.

"Old Kentucky Naysay, Tex."—The Louisville Journal, concluding its spirited account of the great mass meeting in that city on the 14th, says: "We proclaim to our friends abroad, that all is well in Kentucky."—Nashville Banner.

Yes, the Journal said that; but he said a few days afterwards that all was not well, that the whigs were not doing their duty, that the democrats were organized and active, and the whigs were not.

The Prospect in Virginia.—John M. Bots, upon returning to Richmond, after a visit of four weeks to western Virginia, in his capacity as Editor at large, says in a published card—"that, from all he has seen and heard in his travels, he is satisfied that, with proper and earnest efforts on the part of the whigs, the State may be carried for Scott."—Rich. paper.

With "proper" efforts, the whigs might carry Virginia. But when did the whigs carry any make proper efforts? Their efforts are proper, and that is the reason they never can carry Virginia. It takes proper efforts to carry that State; and that's the very reason she is always democratic.

will the fugitive slave law to the infinite gratification of the northern abolitionists.
L. J. JONES.
This is an assertion right in the face of the published speeches of John Van Buren endorsing the Baltimore platform, declaring that the Constitution requires the extradition of fugitive slaves, and that the Constitution must be obeyed. What is the use of discussion with an editor who thus sets facts at defiance?

"We have repeatedly shown that the whole Democracy of the Union are united, North and South, as a national party, struggling for the maintenance of the compromise and the Union. As an evidence of the soundness of the New England democrats upon this subject, we publish below a letter from Hon. B. F.
Hallett, a distinguished democrat of Massachusetts, to a gentleman in this city. It makes an appeal to Kentucky to stand by the national democracy of the North in maintaining the cause of State rights and the compromise. We trust that such appeals will meet with a hearty and willing response throughout all the South.

The true hearted democracy of the North are with us; and if we do our duty, abolitionism will, in November next, receive a scathing, crushing, overwhelming rebuke, from which it will not soon be resurrected by all the wily stratagems of Greeley and Seward.

O. T. VILLAGE, Mass., Sept. 12, '52.
Dear Sir:—
Kentucky we look to with interest and hope; if the cause of the South can show its union with the North in putting down abolitionism. If the South would be firm in having no fellowship with democracy or whig abolitionism, but denounce and repudiate them all, you would narrow the evil down to a few impotent fanatics. But as long as the South treats a Northern democrat or whig just the same, whether he supports or opposes the fugitive slave law, in article, in or connexions with abolitionists, just so long the South offers a premium for Northern aboli-tionism. When the South comes to a right discrimination in this matter, the national democracy will be divided, but not till then. The national democracy of the North, who sacrifice local popularity in order to maintain the general rights and special domestic interests of the South, are weary and disgusted with seeing the South take by the hand, coalitionists, or any set of time serving men of the North, who play into the hands of the abolitionists to get votes and to elect a national cast by at the South. They are also tired of the course pursued by the South in permitting the lies of Northern abolitionists to taint Northern national democracy with aboli-tionism, and are weary and disgusted with seeing the South take by the hand, coalitionists, or any set of time serving men of the North, who play into the hands of the abolitionists to get votes and to elect a national cast by at the South.

Very truly yours,
B. F. HALLETT.

[For the Louisville Democrat.]
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 11, '52.

Meas. Editors.—It is well that you should know the condition of parties in this section of our country. Last week, we held two meetings in this end of our country; the one consisting of 23 voters, among them, two Whigs, all however for Pierce and King. The other consisted of 26 voters, all for the democratic nomination, among them, one old Whig, now for Pierce and King. Yesterday, we had another meeting of 30 voters, all for Pierce and King.
These meetings were held in different parts of the county. The democrats here are all wide awake and warm in the cause. The whigs are cold and indifferent. Old Fuss and Feathers cannot produce any enthusiasm among our old settlers. Kentucky must go for the democracy once more.

A. J. JONES.—A friend of ours has related to us a joke that occurred at the Baltimore Convention on Friday night, is too good to be lost. One of the young gentlemen who came over from Richmond with the "Chippewa Club," having imbibed rather freely, was reclining on one of the sofas, and was supported by a friend from the hotel, endeavoring to hold it up. A good democrat came up just at the time, and lowering his umbrella (the rain coming down in torrents) was about to enter the door, when he was thus accosted by the young Chippewa:
"I say, mister, (hiccup) I think it's raining, don't you?" "Yes sir," responded the democrat, "it is raining, but I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs, isn't it?"
The young whig, leaning over just far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did
you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it's raining, isn't
it?" "Yes, it is," responded the democrat, "but
I think it's very much calculated to cool the whigs,
isn't it?" The young whig, leaning over just
far enough not to lose his balance, and eying
him with much respect, responded, "Who did you say, sir?" "I said, mister, it

THE DEMOCRAT.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1852.

A Word to Advertisers.—All the advertisements appearing in this paper are subject to the following regulations, and receive a gratuitous insertion in it. Thus each patron of the morning paper has the advantage of an evening circulation to a distinct class of readers free of charge.

River News.

A ferry boat, to ply between Louisville and Jeffersonville, is being built at Howard's slip yard, in the former place.

The mail boat did not reach our wharf, yesterday, until 1 o'clock, being detained five or six hours by the fog.

The magnificent steamer Golden Gate, Capt. Baldwin, leaves for New Orleans to-day. She has fine accommodations for passengers, and being a very light draught boat, passengers can fear nothing from detection.

The D. A. Given, which sunk in the Mississippi a few days ago, will be a total loss. Her machinery, furniture, tackle, &c., will be saved. The freight is nearly all badly damaged, and will be worth but little when recovered.

It is stated that the insurance office in this city have refused to pay Capt. Longshore the insurance they had on the Pawnee. Capt. Eaton, the agent for the underwriters, it is further stated, is now in Memphis for the purpose of effecting a compromise between the captain of the steamer and the insurance office in this city.

Thanks to the officers of the Dove for late New Orleans papers.

The new file made her appearance at our wharf yesterday, and we visited during the day by her and our friends. She is a perfect model of beauty, and the Cincinnati mechanics may well boast of so fine a specimen of naval architecture. Her cabin is superbly fitted out, and will accommodate one hundred and thirty passengers. She is one hundred and eighty-two feet long, thirty-two feet beam, and twenty-six and a half feet deep. She has four masts, two funnels, and thirty-eight guns in all. She has two engines, twenty-four cylinders, and eight funnels, throwing a great quantity of steam. She is fitted with the latest improvements, and will be worth a great deal of money when she is delivered.

The super steamer Chancellor leaves for New Orleans to-day positively. She is an excellent passenger boat, and her officers are all clever gentlemen. These going South to-day cannot find a better boat to travel on than the Chancellor.

The river was falling slowly last evening, with a feet 6 inches water in the canal.

The Irons has been purchased by a company to run as a packet between Memphis and Napoleon.

The City Council meets to-morrow night.

A number of merchants from Indiana and Illinois are in the city purchasing their fall goods.

The Foreign News this morning, by the Canada, will be found to be very interesting.

The telegraph wire is stretched across the Ohio river at Cincinnati.

There are now 1,100 pupils in attendance at the graded schools of Madison.

Walker, of Adams & Co.'s Express, has commenced on Tuesday night.

The cars will run to Columbus, on the Jeffersonville road, on Saturday.

The Theatre did not open on Monday night. We understand that it will be opened on next Monday night.

The Catholic Cathedral, on Fifth street, will be dedicated on Sunday next.

The 6 o'clock train for Frankfort, yesterday, was crowded with passengers.

Pittsburg is settling at 11 and 10 cents per bushel, and Pomeroy at 12 cents per bushel.

Gen. Scott will be here to-morrow from Lexington.

A gentleman from George town was robbed, night before last, of $25, while on a "spree."

Beef cattle are very scarce in this city, and command high prices.

The cars on the Memphis and Charleston railroad are running from Memphis to Germantown.

The Clay Monumental Association meet at the City Hall to-day.

Number 1000 carried off the "vixen things," at the Price C. outlet last night.

The Canada brings intelligence of the death of the Duke of Wellington.

The cholera is raging at Henderson. Many deaths have occurred up to last Sunday.

Marshall Ronald has been in pursuit of Williams, the ascending work house keeper.

The weather was so cold in Minnesota yesterday that ice was formed to a considerable thickness.

Mr. Crittenden's eulogy on the life and character of Henry Clay, will be delivered at the depot this morning, commencing at 11 o'clock.

The Weekly Democrat can be purchased at the counting-room, this morning, in wrappers, for 5 cents per copy.

John Shee, a printer, and formerly a resident of this city, was killed by a fall, in New Orleans, a few days ago.

The late rains were pretty general all over the country, north, south, east, and west, so far as we have heard. It is feared, however, that they have injured the growing tobacco crop to some extent.

The Jeffersonville and Columbus railroad is already doing good business. Passengers from Indianapolis find this the quickest and cheapest route to Louisville.

The damage done by the great storm on the Mobile and Ohio railroad has been repaired, and the cars have resumed their regular trips from Mobile to Cincinnati.

Another Southerner.—A young lady named Miss Bell, from Dublin, will make her debut as a songstress in St. Louis, shortly. She is said to possess the highest musical abilities.

The Cincinnati papers say that Mr. and Mrs. Malone Raymond, and their singing daughters, intend residing in the "Queen City." The young ladies will give instructions in vocal and instrumental music.

The Price Concert last night held Mozart hall overflowing. Every seat was taken at an early hour and hundreds were unable to gain admission.

The entertainment passed off with great result. The ladies were all dressed in the latest style, and the tickets were sold in less than an hour. We will notice the concert more at length to-morrow, as our time and space will not permit it this morning.

Fashionable Boot and Shoe Store.—J. C. Peters, 38 Fourth street, has on hand a beautiful assortment of boots and shoes, which, for durability of make and fitness of finish, cannot be surpassed anywhere. His assortment of gentlemen's boots and shoes, and ladies' fancy gaiters, is full and complete, and well worthy the attention of the public. Give him a call.

DEATH OF A HORSE FROM FRUIT.—The Frankfort Commonwealth says that on Saturday morning, as a train of cars was coming into that city, a horse of Wm. Collins, a butcher, was hitched to a wagon near the railroad track, became quite restless. He was seized and held by the bridle. As the car came nearer he reared and plunged, then trembled violently, sunk down and died in his tracks. Was a similar case ever before known?

DEATH OF REV. CHAS. C.—The venerable Bishop Chase died at his residence, near Jubilee College, on the morning of the 20th. He was born on the 14th of December, 1775, and had, therefore, nearly completed his seventy-seventh year. His interesting career of clerical, and the services rendered by him to the cause of religion and religion, will give him a permanent place in the history of the church of which he was a member, and cause his name to be held in remembrance.

There has been considerable stir upon the streets for some two days past, on account of the sudden disappearance of Mr. Wm. Williams, the keeper of the workhouse. He took passage on the Frankfort train of cars on Monday morning—leaving behind him several thousand dollars of debts unpaid; abandoned the duties of his office and made off with funds belonging to the city, which were committed to his care for the purpose of supplying for the workhouse. Such are the current rumors of the street, and we confess that the proper authorities have been telegraphed to various points for the purpose of arresting him.

The steamer Duke is up for New Orleans this afternoon, at 5 o'clock; H. W. Smith, master. The water is low, but the Duke will go through. The Captain is a trump in his business, and all the officers faithful and recommended.

Meeting at the Court-House.

There will be a meeting of the Democracy at the Court-House on WEDNESDAY night. Dr. Howard and Messrs. Pilcher and Kinkaid will be present and address the meeting.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING—EIGHTH WARD.

Messrs. WHITELY and GRAVES will address the Democratic Pierce Club at their Room, (Wolfe's tavern) Main street, between Eleventh and Twelfth, south side, on Wednesday evening next. The citizens of the ward are invited to attend.

SPEAKING AT JEFFERSONVILLE.

A. P. Willard, Esq., democratic candidate for Lt. Governor of Indiana, will make a speech at Jeffersonville to the Democratic Pierce Club on Saturday next.

Let the Democracy be ready—all are invited.

Independent Hall.

At a meeting of the Washington Independent Fire Co. No. VII, held in their hall, after the funeral of their respected brother and fellow-fireman, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Whereas, It has been the will of Divine Providence, to call from our body, our beloved and respected friend and brother James A. Slack.

Therefore, Be it resolved: That we condole with deceased's family, relations and friends, for the loss of a son, relative and friend, who was beloved and respected by all who knew him; and that a dutiful son who lived was kind and obedient, whose friends will mourn his departure, whose enemies (if such he had) will freely forgive, and whose departure bore no stain.

Resolved, That we offer our prayers to "Almighty God" for him who departed this life believing in the Saviour.

Resolved, That we wear the usual badge of mourning thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his bereaved mother, and also published in the daily papers.

W. J. PETO, Secy. WM. J. PETO, Committee. F. C. CURTIS, Committee.

The fair authors of the following can never make anything of the editor of the Courier. He hasn't the taste or sense to do any better. He lacks the disposition to do the gentleman, nor would he know how to do it if he were to try.

Eds. Democrat: In yesterday's Courier a notice appeared in regard to the fair, with which Mr. Haldeman chose to connect "the cake" which was gotten up and paid for by a few of the Democratic bar. His remarks were not correct, and "some good Democratic ladies" requested him to correct his statement, which he promised them, with "fear and trembling," to do. In this morning's paper he attempts what he may call a correction, the refutation of which, in reference to the Dutch, we are not unconscious and ungenerally. No other than the gentleman who presides over the editorial department of the Courier would thus pursue ladies through the columns of a public paper. We beg leave to inform Mr. Haldeman that "the cake" was disposed of in accordance with the direction of those to whom it belonged.

SOME GOOD DEMOCRATIC LADIES.

A CHANGE OF TUNE.

The whig papers, after wasting a great deal of breath, paper, and ink, to coax and cajole our Irish and German citizens to vote the whig ticket, have just found out that it is "love's labor lost." The Irish and Germans will not swallow their native-American candidate. Straightway, these whig editors, who have been talking so lovingly about "the warm-hearted Irishman," and "the sturdy and substantial German," take another tack, and endeavor to turn the tide of public opinion. Of this morning's edition of the Cincinnati Atlas has been the loudest in its attempt to coax our foreign-born citizens into the support of Gen. Scott. Despairing of this, however, it abuses them in the following manner:

"There was a time when every peaceable citizen of the Union was disposed to dread the influence which voters of foreign birth, holding peculiar views, governed by peculiar influences, would have upon our own free institutions. It is no secret, and it cannot be forgotten, that in New York and Philadelphia especially, and in many other towns and cities of the Union, from the year 1835 to 1840, scenes of the most terrible and disgraceful character were enacted, growing out of the passions of foreigners, inflamed to madness by the arts of demagogues, and resulting in riots upon days of election, of so serious a character as to threaten the safety of the citizen, the peace of the community, and almost the very existence of the government itself. This land then saw the glorious stars and stripes, that had waved in triumph over so many a hard-fought battle field and so many a bloody wave, torn from their staff and trailed in ignominy at the heels of a howling mob through the streets of the commercial metropolis of the Union. It saw the flag of a foreign country elevated in its place, and under that banner, the flag of foreign birth and language gathered, bound together by a bond which America cannot recognize—with views of which our constitution takes no cognizance, and owning an allegiance antagonistic to that freedom which our institutions are intended to secure."

FRANCE AND AMERICA.—The London correspondent of the New York Tribune asserts that Louis Bonaparte has already proved his intention of meddling in American affairs, and adds:

"He has sent his friend and Minister, M. de Persigny, to London, in order to bring about an understanding as to the state of things in Mexico, and he has declared that he is ready to maintain the right of Peru to the Guano Islands, which has been called in question by Mr. Webster, and as Lord Malmesbury is the personal friend of Louis Bonaparte, there is no doubt that he will be successful in succeeding through him in carrying England and France in difficulty with the United States. The first thing, in our course, the meddling with the affairs of South America."

(Reported for the Louisville Democrat.)

POLICE COURT.

Hon. JOHN JOYCE, Judge.

Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Emily Clark, Geo. Lewis, Jos. Gossel, John Burns, Wm. Gwin, Caleb West, Geo. Foster, Robt. O'Brien, H. L. Lobson, Mary Kelly, and Mrs. Keen were ordered to be discharged from the workhouse.

Geo. Webber, petty larceny; bail in $400 for one year. Cave.

Commonwealth vs. Jas. Knox vs. Elizabeth C. G. P. v. v.

Same vs. Virginia Bebe vs. James Knox, p. v. Same vs. Jas. Knox vs. Virginia Bebe, p. v. All these cases were heard and dismissed.

Commonwealth vs. Geo. Neeb vs. Frederick Bonn, p. v. Own recognizance taken in $100 for three months.

GOOD REASONS.

In a late speech in the House of Representatives in Congress, Mr. Olds gave the following reasons for his change from a whig to a democrat. They are good ones:

Mr. Campbell, of Ohio.—I wish to ask my colleagues whether he was not once in favor of a Bank of the United States?

Mr. Olds.—I am thankful that my colleague has asked the question if I was not once in favor of a Bank of the United States. I have already told the House that I was once a whig, and when I was a whig I thought as a whig, I spoke as a whig, and I acted as a whig, but when I became a democrat, I put away childish things. (Laughter.)

Mr. Hunter.—Will my colleague tell us where the change took place?

Mr. Olds.—Yes, sir, I will answer this question also, and I will inform my colleague and the House where the change took place. It took place when the whig party, who in 1828, had invoked war, and pestilence, rather than the rule of a mere military chieftain, went "a whoring after strange gods" and General Harrison. It was when the "all decency party" disgraced the American name, and the sacred cause of freedom, by their hard cold drunken campaign of '40.—That was the time when I came "out from the fold party."

Mr. Hunter.—I ask the gentleman if he did not oppose Gen. Jackson, and carry coffin handles throughout the country?

Mr. Olds.—I never did. As mean a whig as I may have been, I was never mean enough to carry coffin handles.—(Laughter.) I thank God there have been many whigs in the country than I have been. (Great laughter.)

Mr. Chairman, I suppose from these repeated attacks upon me, for having once been a whig, means to have committed the "unpardonable sin." It is passing strange that when a whig desires to blacken my character, he accuses me of having been a whig. I hope all the people in the country, at the approaching election, will be warned by my fate or show their claim to respectability by voting the Democratic ticket.

(From the Cincinnati Enquirer.)

The Traveling Military Candidate.

The commander-in-chief of the American army, it appears, has left his official duties to take care of themselves at Washington, in order that he may devote his time and attention solely to the furtherance of his political ambition. A couple of months ago he declined to attend the "Lundy's Lane" celebration, on the ground of his sense of "modesty and propriety," but that "sense," like his "religious sense" in his difficulty with Andrew Jackson, does not appear to have any permanent lodgment in his feelings, and has deserted him at the next opportunity. It is certainly a very humiliating spectacle for the American people to see the commander-in-chief of the army so far forget the proprieties of the station and his own dignity as to voluntarily descend into the political arena and resort to the arts of the office seeking demagogue. Neither is it very gratifying to the lovers of our republican institutions to see this interference of the head of the military with popular elections, as it is a sign which bodes no good to the permanency of our government. In the days of the earlier Presidents, such a step as Scott has now taken would have aroused the feeling of resentment throughout the country. If history teaches any lesson of admonition, it is that—free from military chieftains the lovers of free institutions have most to fear—and it is from the army that nearly all attacks upon popular government have been made.

A wholesome jealousy of military interference in elections has hitherto prevailed in this country, and we should be sorry to believe that it was in any wise weakened or did not exist in all the strength of its original force. This first attack upon that sentiment deserves a severe rebuke from the freemen of the country, and we have no doubt that he will receive it, and that Gen. Scott will be taught the lesson that he is out of his legitimate sphere, when he enters personally the political field in search of civil honors.—It has hitherto been a proud distinction for us, that our Generals resorted to their duties, and did not like the same class of persons in Mexico and South America, employ their time in endeavoring to attain civil stations. But Gen. Scott has now set an example, which should be followed by others, would inevitably disgrace the United States, by placing her upon a level with the degraded South American Republics. Were Henry Clay and Daniel Webster, old Whig leaders, now in Congress, and in the pristine vigor of their faculties, how they would thunder denunciation upon this military interference. They would level the lightning of their eloquence at the head of the General, and bring down the most tremendous applause from the Senate and the galleries. A telegraphic dispatch from Washington says, "that the General will give his consent to public reception." Of course he will, for they are the object of his travels; and beside, his vanity and egotism are flattered by them to an inordinate extent. How different is the character of Scott from that of Andrew Jackson! There was a stern simplicity and republican integrity about the hero of New Orleans, which rendered him aversive to all sorts of public shows and entertainments, and he always escaped from them if possible. But Scott, a vain, proud man, an aristocrat in feeling, who has no other regard than to please the common people, and greatly pleased with these marks of homage, which he considers his due, and looks upon as a matter of course. The present expedition is, therefore, gratifying to him in every respect. In connection with the Philadelphia Pennsylvanian, "we presume that he will return to Washington in time to hear of the election of Franklin Pierce."

THE RIVAL CANDIDATES.

For the Whigs there are before the public. Speeches, Meetings, Barbecues, are all the rage. Excitement is everywhere, and the Whigs are everywhere. Yet months have elapsed since these rival leaders were presented to the notice of a discerning public, and months must elapse ere the public will decide who is to bear the palm, and occupy the seat of honor. But no array has been deemed necessary in coming to a conclusion as to the result.

DAQUERREOTYPING.

In this city, for this same charge, eagle-eyed, truth-telling public, have examined, and the Ladies, with their lustre, sparkling eyes, false light was made to be seen, and have sanctioned the decision, that Kimball's Pictures are Paramount!

Note with 477 in the number, and Isaac Cronin's Paper Store is directly under the National Gallery of 477—J. A. KIMBALL & CO.—477—

NEW AUCTION AND COMMISSION STORE.

H. & B. LEVY—B. LEVY, Auctioneer.

No. 502 Market street.

NEW and OLD FURNITURE bought, sold, or exchanged.

Regular Auction Sales every MONDAY and WEDNESDAY.

Out-door Sales attended to.

Particular advances made on goods of every description.

References.—A. D. Hunt & Co., George Welby, Thos. H. Hunt, Cornwall & Brother.

LATEST STREAK

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN STAPLE, FANCY, & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS!

RESPECTFULLY solicit the attention of City and Country Merchants to their extensive assortment of FALL AND WINTER GOODS, which they have already received, and will be daily augmented by new arrivals from the manufacturers of the season. A large assortment of American and Foreign Dry Goods, including the following: Brown and bleached Domestic Cloths, Prints, best styles of the best brands; Canton and Woollen Fabrics, &c.; A large assortment of Cloths, Cassimeres, Coats, Ties, &c. of the best form and quality; Merinos and Paramattas, of superb styles and color; Black and colored Real and Mohair Alpaca; Silk and Worsted Serges; Printed Muslins, Lawns and Cashmeres, of the richest designs; Black Silks, Satins, Vestings, Irish Linens.

WHITE GOODS.

A large stock of Swiss Jaconets, Plaid Mullins, Bishop Lawns, with a great variety of Lace Croons, &c. Also, a complete assortment of Embroideries, such as Collars, Caps, Stoles, Chemises, &c. Always on hand a full supply of Cotton and Woollen Hosiery, Ribbons, and Trimmings.

They are agents in this city for Messrs. P. H. Lewis & Co., New York, the largest manufacturers in the country of Ready-Made Shirts, which they sell at East prices.

Country merchants visiting this city will find it greatly to their advantage to give them a call, as they will be able to select from the best form and quality of the season.

ASHBURNTON LACE FOR CURTAINS. NEW FURNITURE. BERRY'S.

SILK, WOOL, and COTTON HOSIERY. LADIES' and MISSES' CLOTHING. VARIETY GOODS!

COMBS, BRUSHES, BUTTONS, TRIMMINGS, &c. AT NO. 116 FOURTH STREET. BERRY'S CHAPLAIN STORE.

MILLINERY!

MRS. J. A. BEATTIE. RESPECTFULLY invites the Ladies of Louisville, and the public in general, that she is now opening a choice stock of Seasonable Millinery. Embracing the latest styles of French, English, and American Bonnets; Paris Ribbons; French Flowers; Rich Plumes; Dress Caps; Mantles; Gloves; Mitts; Laces; Garters; Fringes, &c.; and a full assortment of the most fashionable and useful articles, which she will promptly and at the lowest prices, endeavor to satisfy.

Her address is at No. 116 Fourth Street, between Third and Fourth streets, in the building formerly occupied by J. A. Beattie.

COLLIER & VAN CULIN.

IMPORTERS and WHOLESALE DEALERS IN CLOTHS, CASSIMERES, VESTINGS and FANCY DRY GOODS, ENGLISH, FRENCH, GERMAN, and AMERICAN VARIETY & FANCY GOODS!

No. 425 Main street, between Fifth and Sixth, South side, Louisville, KY.

HAVING added to our former stock of Cloth, Cassimeres, Vestings, Tailors' Trimmings, and Millinery, we are now opening a large and complete stock of the latest styles of the season, and are prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

At a public sale, on the 10th inst., at 10 o'clock, A. M., the following property, to-wit: A lot of land, situated in the city of Louisville, containing about 10 acres, more or less, and being the property of the late John A. Beattie, deceased, will be sold by the undersigned, J. A. Beattie, Executor.

CHANCEY JEROME, CLOCK MANUFACTURER, New Haven, Conn.

Western Agency, T. SMITH & CO., 88 MAIN STREET, ST. LOUIS, MO.

Also—Selling Tools, Hardware, and Irons, and all the goods of the season at low prices.

MAISON D'OR!

Main street, between Second and Third.

HAVING now completed the necessary preparations for the opening of the season, I have the honor to inform my former customers of the establishment, as an inspection of the splendid work of goods which is now in store, and which I desire to devote to the service of the public. I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

During the period of 15 years that I have bought the goods of the season, I have never been able to select a better stock of goods than I have now in store. I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have elevated the style and quality of my goods far beyond those of any other establishment in the city. I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

I have selected the most fashionable and useful articles, and am prepared to offer inducements to our old friends and the trade generally. Quick sales and small profits is our motto. Buyers would do well to give us a call. We promise them satisfaction.

Foreign News.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP CANADA.

Interesting News!!

One Week Later from Europe!

DEATH OF WELLINGTON.

FINE HARVESTS!

Seizure of the Guano Islands!

Scarcity of Silver Coin in England!

of Kentucky, you will assemble at your respective places of abode, on this first day of September, 1862, for the purpose of electing a Representative in Congress to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of the Hon. H. Marshall; and the officers of the election appointed by the County Court, will cause prizes to be granted at the places of voting in their respective precincts on said day, and proceed with the same as directed by law, and make due return according to law, and without delay, as witnesses my hand, as Sheriff of Jefferson County, on this 1st day of September, 1862.

P. S. J. RONALD,
Sheriff Jefferson county.

sent & advte